

ABOUT

Hope-for-Today.com

HOPE-FOR-TODAY is a personal initiative rising out of the recognition that:

- Government is little-by-little chipping away at our national sovereignty, eroding our economy, encouraging depravity, and continues to remove our Christian freedom. We have less Christian freedoms today than we have ever had in the history of the United States.
- Those claiming to be Christian puts forth more effort in pleasures, life issues, and politics than they do in the things of God and striving to invite others to embrace Jesus through repentance and obedience to God.
- We are living in dangerous and desperate times where the door to being a witness in the marketplace is closing more and more. The opportunity to publicly spread the gospel is now, tomorrow may be a closed door.
- God's people, the "I," are the salt and light of the earth. If we, "I," are not salting and illuminating the earth, darkness, sin, and the lower nature of people will continue to increase
- Jesus is the only viable hope for our present age, not the government, not educators, not anything that we put our trust in above Jesus.

HOPE-FOR-TODAY is not associated with any denomination or religious institution. It is the effort of one who believes that if there is to be hope for our nation and our eternal soul, that hope must come through Jesus and Jesus alone. That hope begins when we repent from our sins, believe in Jesus, and obey the teachings of God.

BLESSINGS!

Steve